SECTION 01

Listing Objectives

1.1 This Token Listing Policy (the "Policy") sets out the criteria and process Docree Demo Exchange (the "Exchange") applies when evaluating digital assets for listing on its trading platform.

1.2 The Exchange aims to offer a curated selection of digital assets that meet standards of legitimacy, liquidity, legal compliance, and user protection. Listing decisions are made at the Exchange's sole discretion.

SECTION 02

Listing Criteria

2.1 The Exchange evaluates prospective listings across the following dimensions:

- Project fundamentals: clear use case, working product, active development, transparent roadmap.
- Team quality: identifiable, credible team with relevant experience and track record.
- Tokenomics: reasonable supply schedule, distribution fairness, absence of hidden allocations.
- Legal compliance: token is not a security in the Exchange's operating jurisdictions.
- Liquidity: existing markets with meaningful trading volume and market-making support.
- Security audits: contract audits from reputable firms with no critical findings unresolved.
- Community & adoption: genuine user base and ecosystem activity.

2.2 Tokens that fail to meet any of the above criteria may still be listed if the Exchange determines that listing serves user interests and does not create undue compliance risk.

SECTION 03

Application Process

3.1 Projects seeking listing may submit an application through the Exchange's listing portal. Applications are reviewed by the listing committee in three stages:

- Initial screening: Compliance, legal, and basic eligibility checks (5-10 business days).
- Technical review: Contract audit review, wallet integration testing (2-4 weeks).

- Commercial review: Market maker agreements, liquidity commitments, launch coordination (1-2 weeks).

3.2 The Exchange does not charge mandatory listing fees to projects, but may require market maker deposits or liquidity commitments. The Exchange reserves the right to reject applications without disclosing specific reasons.

SECTION 04

Ongoing Monitoring

4.1 Listed tokens are continuously monitored across the following criteria:

- Trading volume and bid-ask spreads.
- Price volatility and manipulation signals.
- Project development activity and communication.
- Regulatory developments in relevant jurisdictions.
- Security incidents (exploits, rug pulls, governance attacks).

SECTION 05

Delisting Triggers

5.1 The Exchange may delist a token at any time, with or without notice, in the following circumstances:

- Regulatory determination that the token is a security in a relevant jurisdiction.
- Project abandonment, team exit, or cessation of development.
- Critical security vulnerabilities with no remediation plan.
- Extended periods of negligible trading volume or liquidity.
- Association with fraud, scams, or market manipulation.
- Network forks creating ambiguity about the canonical asset.

5.2 Where feasible, the Exchange provides at least seven (7) days' notice of planned delistings, giving users time to withdraw or trade out their positions. Emergency delistings may occur without notice where user protection requires immediate action.

SECTION 06

Disclaimers

6.1 Listing of a token on the Exchange does not constitute investment advice, endorsement, or a recommendation to purchase. Users should conduct their own research before trading any digital asset.

6.2 The Exchange makes no representations about the accuracy of project disclosures, the performance of listed tokens, or the legitimacy of the underlying technology. Users bear full responsibility for their trading decisions.
