SECTION 01

Introduction

1.1 This Cookie Policy explains how Docree Demo (the "Company") uses cookies and similar technologies on https://docree.com and in its client-facing applications.

1.2 It should be read together with the Company's Privacy Policy, which describes how personal data collected through these technologies is handled.

SECTION 02

What Cookies Are

2.1 A cookie is a small text file placed on a device when a website is visited. Cookies are widely used to make websites work, to remember preferences between visits, and to provide information to site operators about how a site is used.

2.2 Cookies set by the site being visited are described as first-party. Cookies set by another domain, such as an analytics or support provider, are described as third-party.

SECTION 03

Categories of Cookies We Use

Category	Purpose	Can it be refused?
Strictly necessary	Sign-in, session integrity, security, fraud prevention, load balancing and remembering items through a form. The site cannot function without these.	No
Functional	Remembering preferences such as language, theme (light or dark) and layout choices.	Yes

Category	Purpose	Can it be refused?
Performance / analytics	Understanding which pages are visited and where errors occur, so the site can be improved. Reported in aggregate.	Yes
Marketing / targeting	Measuring campaign effectiveness and limiting how often an advertisement is shown. Set only where applicable law permits and, where required, with consent.	Yes

3.1 Strictly necessary cookies are set because the service cannot be delivered without them. All other categories are optional.

SECTION 04

Cookie Duration

Session cookies

Exist only while the browser is open and are deleted when it closes. Used mainly to keep a signed-in session secure.

Persistent cookies

Remain on the device for a defined period, or until deleted, so that a preference is remembered on a later visit.

4.1 The Company sets retention periods proportionate to the purpose. Analytics identifiers are kept no longer than necessary to produce meaningful usage reporting.

SECTION 05

Third-Party Cookies

5.1 Some pages include services operated by third parties, which may set their own cookies. These typically include:

- Web analytics providers, used to understand aggregate site usage.
- Live chat and customer support tools.
- Embedded market data, charting and price widgets.
- Independent review platforms displaying the Company's rating.

- Content delivery networks serving fonts, scripts and images.

5.2 The Company does not control third-party cookies. Their use of data is governed by each provider's own privacy and cookie policies, which should be reviewed separately.

5.3 The Company does not sell personal data and does not permit third parties to use cookies set through its site to build advertising profiles for unrelated businesses.

SECTION 06

Similar Technologies

6.1 Alongside cookies, the Company may use:

- Local storage and session storage, which hold preferences in the browser without being sent with every request.
- Pixels and tracking tags, which record that a page or email was opened.
- Software development kits (SDKs) inside mobile applications, which perform a comparable role to cookies.

SECTION 07

Mobile Applications

7.1 Mobile applications do not use browser cookies. They use equivalent device identifiers and local storage for the same purposes: keeping a session secure, remembering preferences, and diagnosing crashes.

7.2 Advertising and analytics identifiers can be reset or limited in the device's own privacy settings, under the operating system's advertising or tracking controls.

SECTION 08

Managing Your Preferences

8.1 Cookies can be controlled in the browser. Every major browser allows cookies to be blocked, deleted, or restricted to first-party only, usually under Settings, then Privacy.

8.2 Browser-specific instructions are published by each vendor:

- Google Chrome - Settings > Privacy and security > Third-party cookies

- Apple Safari - Settings > Privacy > Manage Website Data
- Mozilla Firefox - Settings > Privacy & Security > Cookies and Site Data
- Microsoft Edge - Settings > Cookies and site permissions

8.3 To request information about the data held through cookies, or to exercise any data protection right, contact dpo@docree.com.

SECTION 09

Consequences of Disabling Cookies

PLEASE NOTE

Blocking strictly necessary cookies will prevent signing in to the Client Area and may stop parts of the site working altogether. Blocking optional cookies does not affect access to the service, though some preferences will not be remembered between visits.

SECTION 10

Changes and Contact

10.1 This Policy may be updated as the site, the technologies used, or the law change. The current version is always published at the Company's website.

10.2 Questions about this Policy may be sent to hello@docree.com, or to dpo@docree.com for data protection matters.
